

4th Disciple's collaboration featuring Brooklyn legend Sean Price fell one day short of a classic album"

Brooklyn MC Sean Price suddenly passes while recording a collaboration project with 4th Disciple.

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, September 8, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- "Destiny" best describes the recent partnership between 4th Disciple and the late Sean Price.

On August 5th, 4th Disciple, Price and Rhasun Tapp of Blakglobe Music Group got together for a session in Staten Island at Code Red Studios. The session also included Wu-Tang's Inspectah Deck, Lounga Lo, Remedy (Code Red Entertainment) and up and coming MC, RIM from the group Davillins, on Ruckdown Records (Sean Price's label).

Initially, 4th Disciple and Price were going to record one or two tracks together but the unmistakable musical chemistry between 4th Disciple's production and Price's flow made these artists come to a mutual agreement to record a full length album featuring Deck, completely produced by 4th Disciple. The two-day all night sessions generated three verses from Price, two of them blessed by Deck which flow over dope 4th Disciple beats. Price and 4th decide to take a break and agree to reunite on Monday, August 10th, to finish the project. On Saturday, August 8th, 4th learned of the tragic passing of Sean Price from a family member:

"Me and P had just only recently met but it felt like I had known him for years. He was a truthful Brother, Hip-Hop and the world will surely miss his presence. Utmost condolences to his family and crew." -4th Disciple
