

TravelDew Creates Platform for Leaders in Experiential Travel to Share Their Stories

MISSOULA, MONTANA, USA,
September 11, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/
-- TravelDew announces the recent launch of its website, traveldew.com, where leaders in experiential travel are invited to share their stories, insights, and unique perspectives through interviews. TravelDew is building a community that honors the variety of the experiential travel industry while simultaneously creating an opportunity for participants learn from one another.

Of the websites launch, founder Gabe Millar said, "with each interview I am excited to learn a little more about the way in which each of these experiences is brought to life across this amazing industry, that is what TravelDew is all about."

"Examples of experiential travel from my own adventures include cutting peat in Ireland to dry and burn for fuel, staying in a castle on a ridge top above the Danube River in Germany, boating through a bioluminescent bay in Puerto Rico, and learning about Australia's wine and food through a tour of the Central Market in Adelaide. TravelDew.com is an opportunity for the creators of these experiences to share their stories."

Experiential Travel defined: Experiential travel is an approach to traveling which focuses on experiencing a place by connecting with its history, people or culture. The opportunities for this type of travel are as varied as the people and places where they are found, they provide insight into the lives of a community through how they work, play, or live (either now or in the past).
