New startup looks to fill a major void in real estate by offering Realtors a complete toolbox designed to increase production at an affordable monthly cost.

LAFAYETTE, CA, USA, September 9, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- It's agreed success in the competitive world of real estate comes much quicker to people with the proper training, coaching and resources to work with. A new innovative solution to this challenge is realCoached, a complete set of real estate tools in one box. Recently realCoached announced their coming Sept 28th launch at a special Career Impact Event in Lafayette, California.

Most experts agree, for real estate agents to do their best it's a must to have a number of important things in place to support their work. What if most things on that list could be purchased in one inexpensive package that an agent could use online whenever and wherever they need them? That's the concept behind realCoached, which aims to be a complete solution to becoming a top real estate producer in one complete toolbox. The company has announced a September 28th launch in Lafayette, California at a special Career Impact Event and the anticipation surrounding it is very high.

"The tools we're offering on realCoached.com would cost hundreds of dollars a month if they were purchased separately," said Co-Founder and COO, Tony Chahal. "We're very happy to deliver them for only $14.95 a month, really opening the door to breakaway real estate success. We'd recommend anyone interested, who's here in California, to come check out our launch, it's going to be a really amazing experience."

According to realCoached the Career Impact Event will be led by industry expert and CEO of realCoached, Rich Casto, who has trained over 60,000 agents, was a top 1% sales agent and has been published in every major real estate publication.

The realCoached package is made up of a Live Coaching Module, featuring live weekly webinars for every level of real estate agent; a Virtual Trainer, offering a way to improve skills in the office or at home; a Client Relationship Manager (CRM) and Email Marketing tool; and Personalized Videos, that displays company logo, picture, and personal contact info, which is considered one of the best ways to build rapport and bring in interest from clients.

Past events from Casto have been very widely praised by attendees.

Aaron O'Brien, from San Leandro, recently said, "Rich's presentation cut across the lines of all careers and life. The emphasis of 'learning the business' and 'serving the client' struck a cord with me because I doubt it is a consideration of most people. Rich's presentation confirmed the belief that I will do well in the business.”
