

TrackingTheWorld Releases Enduro Pro 3G GPS Tracker

TrackingTheWorld Release New 3G Tracking Device.

BURLINGAME, CA, USA, September 23, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- TrackingTheWorld recently released the Enduro Pro 3G tracking device which includes multiple new features and 3G GSM quad-band capabilities. With 3G service capabilities, the EnduroPro 3G allows users to avoid coverage gaps caused by the phase out of 2G services expected by mobile carriers over the next year.

The Enduro Pro 3G tracker offers expanded territory coverage, particularly for those in remote, weak signal areas. The device is ideal for vehicle tracking, employee monitoring, asset tracking, and surveillance or covert tracking applications. A newly designed thumb-sized button with vibration confirmation on the front of the 3G tracking device serves as an easy-to-access, larger-sized panic button.

Water resistant and durable, the Enduro Pro 3G tracker offers superior sensitivity and faster times to first fix. Depending on the specific application and user preferences, the 3G GPS tracker is capable of both real time and periodic tracking through a backend server.

For extended battery life, the new 3G GPS tracking device includes a built-in 3-axis accelerometer for motion detection, allowing for power conservation when the device is stationary. Brighter LED indicators provide greater visibility for monitoring the status of the tracker day or night, and the Enduro Pro 3G comes with PTCRB, CE and FCC identification certifications. Full power management includes external DC power and battery operation.

A Mini-Mag magnetic mounting device is available as an optional accessory for convenient mounting to any magnetic surface.
