Michelle White Coaching: "Helping Seasoned Professionals and Mid-lifers Find More Satisfying Careers."

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, USA, September 28, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- We all have dreams and aspirations for our lives. We want to make the most out of every opportunity that comes our way. But sometimes things get in the way, or we don't know how or where to begin. In these instances, outside perspectives combined with an action plan can be truly valuable.

Since 2011, career and life coach Michelle White has helped seasoned professionals and mid-lifers navigate the challenges of looking for a new job, explore options when they are dissatisfied with their careers, or pursue starting their own business. Michelle works with each client to help them get clear on their career goals, evaluate their skills, interests and job preferences, and execute an action plan to go after their dream career. This approach, combined with various coaching techniques as well as Michelle's own professional experience in the corporate world, allows Michelle White Coaching to help people find career success, peace and happiness.

Prior to coaching, Michelle spent over fifteen years working in the advertising and publishing industries. She saw firsthand how difficult it was for people, especially women, to bounce back after a job loss in mid-life or to figure out their next career move. With professional life coach training at The Institute of Professional Excellence in Coaching, also known as iPEC, Michelle found a new career path for herself doing what she loves most: helping others find career success.

“If you have important goals for yourself, then you have to be willing to work hard in order to accomplish those goals. Coaching helps people make changes in their lives and mindset and it is a transformational process,” says Michelle. “I like to help people think in new ways to reach their highest potential.”

CUTV News Radio will feature Michelle White in an interview with Jim Masters on September 30th at 4pm EST.
