

Grand Opening - IcNewberryArt.com Online Art Gallery

Looking for Your Personal Wonderland? The new online gallery IcNewberryArt.com showcases oil paintings & prints to help you build it.

SURPRISE, ARIZONA, UNITED STATES, September 29, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- You live in a high-stress world, 'crazy busy' some might call it. Your work is cerebral, mind work, and draining. It demands creativity, calculation and drive. It is as valuable and as exhausting as manual labor.

You work long hours, full of meetings, spreadsheets, and appointments. At home you juggle spiritual pursuits, relationships and running between sports practice, school functions, and celebrations. You try to guard your time to maintain balance in your personal life. But, it's hard.

Then you are hit with a life stopping experience, a catastrophic life event or health issue; something that forces you to re-evaluate every element of your life. You dust yourself off, because.... well, that's who you are!

More than ever quiet time is something you need, not simply desire. You need a place of peace; an oasis replete with rejuvenating possibilities. These dreams, are 'through the looking glass' moments. They are your Wonderland, but where do you find it? Well, they are closer than you think. And, you can create them on your own.

Linda understands all of this. She too lived the corporate life, stressed and strained; juggling work and family life. Then within a few short years she was hit by the death of two parents, the embarrassment of foreclosure during the real estate meltdown, and the personal diagnosis of Rheumatoid Arthritis. She experienced incremental deterioration in her body, crippling in extremities; constant pain, chronic fatigue, loss of financial and physical independence, and having to quit work.

She found a way to move on in the midst of chaos. Her wonderland is art! It is transformative for her every time she sets her arm on a soft pillow and puts a brush in her hand to paint. Her collectors have found it is transformative as well, when their newly found piece is hung on their wall to appreciate.

According to Linda, you can create your own private Wonderland with art, too.... and, this is where IcNewberryArt.com comes in.

Wonderland looks different for everyone. It is found in a land- or skyscape, an aromatic garden scene or floral bouquet, thunderous breaking waves on the beach, the sound of laughter in a bustling city café, or a quirky painting that makes you ponder and reflect?

Linda has not only peered through the looking glass but stepped through; finding Wonderland in painting and creating. Her hope is that you will find your Wonderland in becoming a collector of art that sparks a memory, excites your imagination, and feeds your soul....

About the artist: Linda Newberry was forced to quit her job in corporate America due to the crippling and fatigue of severe rheumatoid arthritis. She began oil painting again after setting it down for over 30 years, finding that even though her dominant hand and arm have crippled her art has more depth than in earlier years. Art has given her a way to contribute, to define herself beyond a crippling disease, and to motivate other people (and herself) with beauty.
