

Global Cardio Care® Centers Centenarian Patient Marks Centennial With 100th EECP® Treatment

Mattie Bowens, 100-years-old, Gets EECP for Cardiovascular Health, Circulation; Uses Patent-Pending Sara Soulati Health For Life Program as Lifestyle Guide

LOS ANGELES, CA, USA, October 15, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Global Cardio Care Centers' patient Mattie Bowens, a centenarian, recently completed 100 EECP® (Enhanced External Counterpulsation) treatments and also celebrated her 100th year of life, the center announced today.

Since 2003, Ms. Bowens has been receiving EECP treatment for cardiovascular health at the physician practice of Ronald. S. Weaver, MD at Global Cardio Care Centers in Inglewood (Los Angeles), California. Her treatment regimen is non-surgical EECP therapy that promotes disease prevention, improved circulation, and overall quality of life.

Mattie Bowens celebrates 100-years-old and 100 EECP treatments at Global Cardio Care with Gabriel Salazar, client services manager.

About EECP

During each EECP treatment, a patient lies on a comfortable bed hooked to an EKG to monitor heart beat and the sequential pulsing of the blood-pressure type cuffs wrapped around legs, thighs and buttocks. At the same time Ms. Bowens receives EECP, she is coached by a qualified technician about lifestyle guidelines from the patent-pending Sara Soulati Health For Life Program.

I'm so proud of Ms. Bowens for 100 years of life and 100 treatments.

Sara Soulati, CEO, Global Cardio Care, Inc.

The program, developed by Sara Soulati in 2010, is a daily lifestyle coaching and health support program that educates people about cardiovascular disease, EECP therapy, importance of plant-based nutrition, moderate exercise, as well as how to become a champion for greater long-term health.

“One of the primary benefits of EECP combined with my patent-pending Sara Soulati Health For Life Program is enhanced quality of life,” said Sara Soulati, CEO of Global Cardio Care, Inc., a physician practice management firm. “Each of our clients who experience the power of this combined treatment program see astonishing results mostly due to education about vegan lifestyle and the benefit of enhanced circulation throughout the body and its organs. The Sara Soulati Method of EECP defies age, and I'm so proud of Ms. Bowens for 100 years of life and 100 treatments.”

Ms. Bowens recently shared with Soulati that her memory has improved. She has more energy and is actively mobile, walking daily under the guidance of her daughter in whose home she lives.
