

Creekside Farms Unveils Line of Fall and Holiday Wreath Creations

GREENFIELD, CA, UNITED STATES, October 14, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Greenfield, CA (October 2015) Bring a splash of color and flair to your home or office for the holidays with one of Creekside Farms' new line of beautiful artisan made wreaths. With over 25 years of experience and combined artistic talent creating the classic designs, the newly released wreath line can dress up your door, accent your home or office, and fill your business gift giving needs.

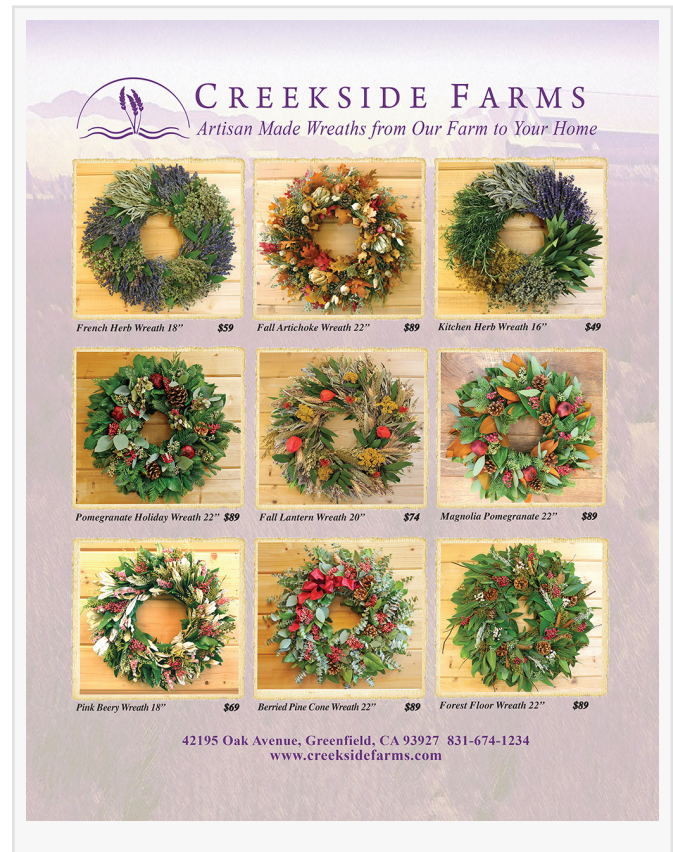

Family owned and operated, Creekside Farms is located in Southern Monterey County, where the warm dry climate is ideal for growing lavender and other herbs used to hand make their quality line of wreaths. You can see the natural wonders on their website, www.creeksidefarms.com, and can call their friendly staff to answer any questions.

For those looking for an alternative business gift, their dedicated business gifts division can expertly answer any questions and provide exclusive designs that will continue to remind the recipient of your thoughtfulness. They provide a beautiful artisan made gift for a reasonable cost and deliver it directly to the recipient. Let their team take the stress out of gift giving.

Creekside Farms' premier designs have been featured by many top retailers, such as Williams-Sonoma, Pottery Barn, Harry and David, Frontgate, and Sur La Table. Their new line of wreaths encompasses the many successful wreaths they've produced and brings together nature's finest and freshest ingredients. Their wreaths are not only perfect for the holidays, but for those special occasions, such as birthdays, weddings, and births. Their lavender and herbs also make unique and natural gifts all hand harvested, made, packed, and shipped from Greenfield, CA with destinations throughout the U.S. You too can enjoy their natural wreaths, straight from their farm.

Creekside Farms had its beginnings in 1969 when Carol and Larry Umbarger bought a ranch in Southern Monterey County so they could raise their children in a rural setting with their seven horses. In the late 1980's, the Umbarger's began growing flowers and ornamental and culinary herbs to help with college expenses for their two older children. They began making wreaths for Smith & Hawken and soon expanded to providing beautiful wreaths to many other top retailers and catalogues. Since then, many members of the three generations of their family have joined Creekside Farms to expand their growing family legacy. Housed in their manufacturing facility, Creekside Farms' dedicated staff, both family members and longtime employees, assemble and carefully pack each shipment.
