

Official Launch of Trade Ally International

Trade Ally International has launched a website which aims to provide a user-friendly, highly secure and reliable online platform for import and export.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, UNITED STATES, October 25, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- It was a big day for Trade Ally International as it announced its grand opening this Monday, October 19, 2015. Fireworks and cheers were the order of the day with trade industries offering congratulations and a customary good luck handshake.

This begs the question; what will be the impact of such a platform on existing ones? Trade Ally International has spared no expense in establishing a state of the art online import and export platform for traders across the globe. Will it actually go global or is it just a name written in sand? Only time will tell.

Now the question arises how can Trade Ally International actually help in trading across borders? Once a trader signs up on the website, then they instantly become a valued member and get a free trial of three months with the option of extending it. As a valued member, one can search for other members (buyers and suppliers) enlisted in the online database. This being said, all the members are trusted parties so trade terms can be negotiated confidently and let the company worry about the security of data. One can discuss trade terms via the highly reliable and user-friendly Private Messaging System (PMS) which is completely safe and extremely convenient to use.

Another vital service of Trade Ally International is that it is offering the services of accountants and lawyers to valued members. So, if there are any questions about the trade laws, tariffs, treaties, embargoes, barriers, license and permit requirements, financial aspects of a trade and any other trade related queries, Trade Ally International has your back because a complete list of A-listed professionals are always there to support members while they focus on their trade.

Once the trade terms are finalized, the next step is that the supplier gives the Commercial Invoice to the buyer via the PMS. Buyer then pays the invoice amount to escrow.com, the licensed, bonded and government regulated third party escrow service based in California, USA. Being the pioneer in providing online escrow services, it is hence the oldest and most reputed of its kind. This highly reliable third party enables the transfer of money from buyer to supplier with complete safety, accountability and peace of mind, the payment is released once the shipment reaches and is approved by the buyer. Basically, Trade Ally International is making sure that the entire process of international trade becomes cost-effective and hassle free, so there is no need to worry about the expensive and often unreliable Letter of Credit anymore while a much better option for transfer of funds across international boundaries is available.

Remember, escrow is a win-win situation for both parties; buyers are guaranteed that they receive the goods which are up to their expectations and suppliers can be certain of the fact that they will receive the payment for products sold.

Next thing up is the tracking system. Once the supplier places a shipping order, tracking code is provided by the shipping company. Supplier then provides the code to the buyer via the messaging system so that the buyer can constantly remain aware about where the shipment is. Trade Ally International provides an excellent Tracking Shipment Service on its website which provides tracking on over 300 international shipping companies. In case a shipping company selected is not supported on the system, tracking can still be made possible as long as that particular company offers tracking facility on its website.

Once the shipment is received by the buyer, a few days time period is allowed to inspect the goods and make sure that the shipment is as per the agreed terms of the Commercial Invoice. Once the buyer accepts the shipment on escrow.com, then the funds are released safely to the supplier. It's as simple as that.

Last but not the least, highly professional and trained staff is always available to assist in case of a dispute so that both parties can reach a common ground and resolve issues conveniently. Besides this, the specialized team of Trade Ally International is always there to help for any other reason. The company is constantly working to make trade across borders hassle-free and secure at the same time.
