

Exquisite Clothing Company Dares to Do Something Others Won't

TriOwl Launches Kickstarter Campaign to Make Clothing With a Purpose!

NAPLES, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, October 26, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In the world of fashion, there lacks a brand that provides clothing with a purpose. A company that operates for a cause that goes well beyond providing high-quality clothes. TriOwl is one of the astounding new brands that has emerged in the market. Not only is their clothes made from 100% Peruvian Pima Cotton, which is the best and finest cotton in the world, but the stylish clothing company is committed to donating up to 50% of its net profits to help poverty-stricken children in Latin America build a better life for themselves.

However, something this unique needs help from supporters in the community. The company has launched a Kickstarter campaign to fund startup costs. The goal is to raise $33,000 by November 23, 2015.

The project was created by father and daughter, Alan Rivera and Belen Rivera. They are excited to offer men and women a chance to take advantage of great rewards and early bird specials for making a contribution to this incredible cause.

Contributors can pick from many rewards directly from their 100% Peruvian Pima Cotton clothing line. The material of each item is made from the superior cotton blend that is hypoallergenic, which means everyone can wear the unique clothes TriOwl has to offer. The exquisite material makes it one of the freshest, comfortable and durable clothing line available in the world.

Shipments are set to be delivered within 60 days of the Kickstarter being fully funded, which means backers can receive his or her rewards by February 2016. The Rivera's are excited to make this project a reality to bring people more high-quality apparel to fit their everyday needs.
