

New Generation Recycling Business Opens The Box.

SocialBox.biz (www.socialbox.biz) the new generation recycling business is now up and running.

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, October 26, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As well as recycling services for redundant IT equipment and office furniture, the business also offers a range of storage solutions covering those items plus documents. For business that really want to declutter their offices, SocialBox.biz can clear physical items and also clear electronic documents through a partnership with Dropbox.

Commenting, Director, Peter Paduh said: "This is an exciting time for recycling. So many companies are getting it wrong and do not really live up to their corporate social responsibility mantras. We can provide a holistic solution where everyone wins. We'll manage through storage or recycling, IT equipment, office furniture and documents. There are opportunities for companies to make a direct impact at the point of collection as well as through our donation and monetising options. Furthermore, through using any of our services, there will be an indirect impact as we shall be supporting refugees into the UK to become economically active as part of our own corporate social responsibility programme."

Initially covering the London area, SocialBox.biz will gradually spread out to become a UK-wide resource for redundant IT equipment, office furniture and documents over the next twelve months.
