

IT Governance launches free ISO 14001:2004 to ISO 14001:2015 Conversion Tool to help kick-start an EMS transition

ELY, ENGLAND, November 16, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- To mark the publication of the new version of ISO 14001 – the international standard for environmental management systems (EMSs) – IT Governance, the leading provider of management system documentation toolkits, is pleased to announce that it is giving away a free ISO 14001:2004 to ISO 14001:2015 Conversion Tool to help organisations transition their EMS to meet the Standard's new requirements.

The conversion tool provides organisations with expert commentary on the changes, a high-level mapping table between the two standards, and guidance on where clauses have been removed, relocated and added to the latest version so that they can adapt their existing ISO 14001:2004-compliant EMS into an ISO 14001:2015-compliant EMS.

The tool features:

- Introduction to the new ISO 14001:2015 international standard
- Clause mapping table
- New clauses in ISO 14001:2015
- Summary of Annex SL

This indispensable resource will enable organisations to get ahead of their competitors by giving them the best head-start on their EMS transition project.

Using this tool, users will benefit from:

- Expert commentary
- Ease in identifying new clauses
- Ease in identifying key changes to the Standard

A free copy of the ISO 14001:2004 to ISO 14001:2015 Conversion Tool is available here.
