We first opened our doors on Main Street in Lawrenceville in October of 1977. The firm was founded by three friends – Barry Szaferman, Arnold Lakind and Jeffrey Blumstein who worked together in the Attorney General's Office of the State of New Jersey. Steven Blader joined the firm a few years later as the fourth named partner. We were at first a general practice firm, representing just about anyone who sought our assistance. Since its founding the firm has grown considerably, adding lawyers and developing specialty practices while remaining true to a core set of ideals – zealously protect the interests of our clients while maintaining the highest ethical standards of professional practice. When, in 1984, the firm outgrew its modest space on Main Street, we relocated to our present home at the Quakerbridge Executive Center.
