leverage those tools as a profitable new service. This new program allows them to do both. "

Under the new program, MSPs have multiple options for providing OnPage to prospects and current customers. For customers who desire a new level of alerting, MSPs can use the OnPage web console to configure, deploy and manage the entire system and bill it as a service. If a prospect wishes to install and manage their OnPage enterprise themselves, then the MSP can offer it as a reseller. Either delivery option comes with margins of up to 30%.
