

Milltek Surveys Ltd. Joins Local Construction Association

Milltek Surveys Ltd. has joined the Moose Jaw Construction Association.

MOOSE JAW, SK, CANADA, December 3, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Milltek Surveys Ltd. has joined the Moose Jaw Construction Association. In addition, the company recently became a member of the Saskatchewan Construction Association and the Saskatchewan Heavy Construction Association.

The Saskatchewan-based company located in Moose Jaw, Milltek Surveys Ltd. is a professional survey company that provides services not only for the local area but for all of western Canada. Joining these associations helps to strengthen the company's standing within the communities it serves while adding valuable resources to benefit not only the company but the clients.

Milltek Surveys provides legal and property surveys along with construction surveying services. They offer numerous types of surveys within these broad categories, including oil and gas surveys, right of way surveys, reports for staking property lines, topographic surveys, pipelines and many more. Milltek focuses on accuracy and attention to detail while providing for the safety of its workers, clients and the environment.

The company has established a solid reputation for the work they do. Milltek has worked with a long list of companies on major projects, such as Sandhills Wildlife Federation, M & N Construction, Phoenix Industrial, Macro Industries and more.

Membership in Moose Jaw Construction Association enables Milltek Surveys to take part in meetings and educational seminars to keep surveyors and companies updated on the latest regulations, equipment and other aspects of the construction industry. Potential clients can get to know Milltek Surveys through networking opportunities. This membership increases the visibility of members, which also gives those seeking such services more options.

The Saskatchewan Construction Association provides a voice for companies in various trades throughout the construction industry. Membership ensures that each company's voice is heard to keep the entire industry strong. Being part of this association allows individual members the opportunity to influence changes in regulations for their benefit as well as for the clients. Membership provides the opportunity to form integrated partnerships and long-term relationships while continuing to develop the industry workforce for all of its members. This association also provides a place for members to learn about new technology and processes.

The Saskatchewan Heavy Construction Association focuses on companies involved in heavy construction projects throughout the province and western Canada. Membership in this association allows companies to learn the latest information on events happening in this industry while influencing these changes before they occur.

All of these memberships promote stability in the industry and for each individual company by providing increased brand awareness and networking between companies for long-term partnerships that benefit both parties.

Milltek Surveys continues to develop its reputation as they expand with and grow with valuable company relations and support for their community. Memberships in these associations will continue to strengthen the commitment Milltek has to provide their clientele with services they require.
