

Webinar Explains How to Help Organizations Make the Best of ITSM and Cyber Resilience

IT service managers adapting to new cyber reality

ROTTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS,
December 11, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/

-- The news continues to be dominated by organization's suffering from cyber attacks and the fall-out this creates. As organizations look to improve and avoid being the next victim, one question often being asked is: whose problem is it? Who takes responsibility of cyber security within the organization? Who is going to manage that? Service management is at the forefront of that discussion and is a key part of taking ownership. If you offer consulting and training to IT service management professionals, you should join this ITpreneurs live webinar. With RESILIA, AXELOS Cyber Resilience Best Practice, you can help organizations make the best of ITSM and Cyber Resilience.

At the end of this webinar, you'll

- Understand how ITSM and Cyber Resilience works together
- Learn how to gain the attention of ITSM teams on cyber resilience
- Get a practical starter plan for IT service management teams

ITSM works with all areas of the cyber resilience chain from information owners to end users, business sponsors and security specialists. The organization's critical information assets sit on services owned and run by ITSM on behalf of the business. Adapting to the new cyber reality starts with building personal knowledge and skills, then moving to organization-wide culture, collaboration and responsibility. Don't miss this timely webinar when more and more organizations are looking to step up their cyber resilience. You can help your clients build up their capabilities.

Cyber resilience – there is no time to waste. A cyber smart workforce is needed now. ITpreneurs is an Appointed RESILIA Courseware Provider. Training providers can start offering training under the RESILIA scheme with ITpreneurs courseware.
