

Flexibell, Answer your Door From Anywhere in the World

The most Secure Smart-Doorbell hits the market on Indiegogo allowing Airbnb Hosts to manage Guests from your mobile phone.

SANTA MONICA, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, December 17, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- FlexiBell has hit the market on Indiegogo. The game-changing new product allows home and business owners to be in two places at once, achieving a more flexible schedule. The company is looking to raise $25,000 on Indiegogo for production costs of their first batch of 1000 units; the crowd-fund campaign is set to end late January.

The reengineered doorbell acts as a phone with the press of a button and protects home and business owners from swarming hackers, with no IP addresses attached. FlexiBell is an app-free system claiming the spot as the most secure system compared to other smart doorbells on the market.

After two years of research and development, founder's Sten Gavronski & Indrek Hirvlaan perfected the design of FlexiBell. The sleek, modern product requires only SIM card activation and the simple process of mounting the bell to your home or business.

Indrek Hirvlaan came up with the concept in 2012 when he invited company over to his home. He recalls his guests rang the doorbell for fifteen minutes before he received a call to be made aware of their arrival. An idea was born to connect the doorbell to his cell phone so he would never have his guests wait again.

Focused on hospitality, FlexiBell will call a list of up to five contacts until your guests are greeted. Gavronski explains, "With constant distractions and crazy schedules, it is difficult for us to anticipate exactly when we will be home to receive our guests, packages, cable technicians, cleaners and sometimes even our children. With FlexiBell technology, you can unlock your automated gate system and door from your phone to allow anyone you chose onto your property and into your home."

Originally designed for hosts on travel sites like Airbnb and Couchsurfers, FlexiBell is naturally stretching into small-business and residential markets, as the product is proven useful for realtors, homeowners and small business owners.

FlexiBell is available for retailers to buy in a bulk of ten for $780, or a single purchase of $89-$99 available for a limited time on Indiegogo. The normal retail price is $119.
