

Introducing the Most Revolutionary Approach to the CPA Exam - Yaeger CPA Review

Yaeger CPA Review's "AdaptaPass" Uses Predictive Technology to Help Students Pass the CPA Exam

FREDERICK, MD, USA, January 18, 2016

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Throw away the highlighters and old school study plans. Yaeger CPA Review is announcing a revolutionary way to pass the CPA Exam. Their technology, which they've tailored to each individual students' specific learning style, helps students pass the CPA Exam. The new learning platform is based on how students say they study best, and then continues to adapt based on results throughout the study process. Simply put, the technology learns from the real-time progress a student is making to automatically develop and optimize their learning platform. The end result is the most efficient study platform on the market today.

CPA Exam Review

It's called AdaptaPass. Yaeger is calling AdaptaPass a study platform, rather than a study plan, because it isn't rigid like other CPA Review programs. The technology tests student retention and functional implementation of knowledge to see how students are learning and automatically redevelops curriculum based on the results. It is fully customized to whatever part of the exam students want to study for and then revolves around curriculum in the form of video (long and short), audio lectures, flashcards and hands on learning, which are all interactive. Ideally, since each student is different, the way each student studies should be slightly different. AdaptaPass aims to make that possible.

Phil Yaeger, President and Founder of Yaeger CPA Review had this to say, "Our goal with this program is to form our teaching style around the learning style of each individual student, not the other way around. AdaptaPass technology is the first CPA Review program to use predictive technology to build a customized learning platform. After seeing how AdaptaPass improves the way students learn, and knowing the changes coming to CPA Exam, we know there is no better CPA Review out there."

Right now the technology is in Beta and Yaeger is offering their flashcards for free to anyone who signs up for Beta access.
