

Aragon Research Publishes Third Globe Report on Corporate Learning, 2016

The Aragon Research Globe™ for Corporate Learning evaluates technology & service providers that allow an enterprise to manage and deliver all forms of learning.

PALO ALTO, CALIFORNIA, USA, March 3, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Aragon Research, a technology-focused research and advisory firm committed to providing thought-leading strategic research and trusted advisory services, announced the publication of its third Globe Report for Corporate Learning, 2016.

The Corporate Learning Research Report examines 23 providers in the Learning market across three evaluation dimensions, which consist of Strategy, Performance, and Global Reach. Based on the evaluation, each Learning provider is then placed into one of four spheres: Leader, Innovator, Specialist, or Contender. This Globe report provides a guide as to which vendors have been updating and making-over their offerings to support the social, mobile, and video experience that users want.

"The Learning market is shifting its focus to empowering learners," said Jim Lundy, founder and CEO of Aragon Research. "Business Leaders are seeking better and faster ways for their employees to learn, and vendors are responding with video, mobile, and predictive learning solutions."

Learn more about these 23 providers and how the Learning market is shifting to more of an ecosystem by reading The Aragon Research Globe for Corporate Learning, 2016. The Globe report, as well additional research, is available at <http://www.aragonresearch.com>.
