Nominate for the Roger Léron Award

We are pleased to announce the launch of the 2nd edition of the Roger Léron Award, created by the FEDARENE, European Federation of Agencies and Regions for Energy and the Environment. The purpose of this Award is to acknowledge a persistent and proactive commitment, contributing successfully to sustainable energy at the regional and / or local level in Europe.

Indeed, we believe that the regional and local levels of governance play a central role in energy and climate issues, through their prerogatives in many policy areas (energy, transport, housing...), their proximity to citizens, their thorough knowledge of the territory, and their greater flexibility than national governments.

The winner (an individual or an organization) will receive the trophy during a ceremony on 15th June, in Brussels.

The Award is named in memory of Roger Léron, who was president of FEDARENE from 1990 to 2007 and a life-long contributor to the regional and local sustainable energy field.
