The Center for the Biology of Chronic Disease (CBCD) recently released a new video on Youtube.com. The video centers on the clinical studies conducted by Dr. Hanan Polansky and Dr. Edan Itzkovitz. The studies tested the safety and efficacy of Gene-Eden-VIR, a natural antiviral product. These studies were conducted according to FDA guidelines, and were published in the medical journal Pharmacology & Pharmacy in 2013 and 2014 respectively.

Any individual concerned about a herpes infection would do well to watch this video before deciding on which natural treatment to trust.

The video also goes on to answer common questions about other natural products and the general belief that there is a need for FDA approval. It also explores the difference between companies that conduct clinical studies on their natural products and those that do not.

Gene-Eden-VIR is a natural antiviral dietary supplement. Its formula contains five natural ingredients: Selenium, Camellia Sinensis Extract, Quercetin, Cinnamomum Extract, and Licorice Extract. The first ingredient is a trace element, and the other four are plant extracts. Each ingredient and its dose was chosen through a scientific approach. Scientists at polyDNA, the company that invented and patented the formula, scanned thousands of scientific and medical papers published in various medical and scientific journals, and identified the safest and most effective natural ingredients against latent viruses.

To date, Gene-Eden-VIR and its sister product, Novirin, are the only natural antiviral products on the market with published clinical studies that support their claims.
