

SubscriberWise Executive to Presumptive Nominees Trump and Clinton: Child Identity Theft is Domestic Terrorism

David Howe, founder of SubscriberWise, offers the two leading party nominees a sampling of evidence to prove the failure of politicians to protect children.

WASHINGTON, D.C., U.S.A., March 17, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ --

SubscriberWise, the nation's largest issuing consumer reporting agency for the communication's industry and the leading protector of children victimized by identity theft nationwide, announced today that its founder and CEO is asking the two political front-runners to expand their political discourse to include the subject of child identity theft.

Global Credit Czar and Child Protector David Howe

"Child identity theft is domestic terrorism against the defenseless children of this nation," argued David Howe, CEO for SubscriberWise. "It also happens to be a federal crime that's rarely exposed, rarely-reported, and almost never prosecuted. Sadly, it's an injustice that occurs every day in this nation and its victims almost always suffer in silence. Unfortunately, the establishment politicians have enabled the suffering with their failure to work together and to solve problems.

Child identity theft is domestic terrorism against the defenseless children of this nation.”
