KEY WEST, FLORIDA, USA, March 22, 2016

/EINPresswire.com/ -- With restrictions on boating travel to Cuba relaxing, Conch Harbor Marina, a full-service resort marina, has become an ideal destination for boaters on their way to the Caribbean island.

“With Cuba only 90 miles away, Conch Harbor is the perfect place to stop and gas-up and restock, or to spend a few days enjoying everything Key West has to offer before heading on to Cuba,” said Craig Hunt, owner of Conch Harbor Marina. “We’ve made extensive investments in marina amenities over the past six years, making Conch Harbor a popular destination for all types of cruisers.”

Gina Kennedy, Conch Harbor general manager, added that the marina is already seeing an increasing stream of boats traveling from the United States to Cuba, with many coming from the Tampa area.

The Conch Harbor Marina website has added current information on the regulations for boating to Cuba that can be accessed at <http://www.conchharbormarina.com/cuba.htm>.

An exceptional Florida Keys marina, Conch Harbor is located in the historic seaport area of Key West. The facility is an attractive choice for mega yachts, cruisers, fishermen and families. Guests can enjoy a wide array of marina services as well as onsite dining at two tempting restaurants. The marina’s ample upper deck space, overlooking both the harbor and the attractive swimming pool area, is ideal for special events. A picturesque walk along the harbor brings visitors to busy Duval Street, the heart of Key West.
