Global Cyclic Olefin PolymerMarket

Cyclic Olefin Polymer (COP) is a chemical substance which is specifically used in the manufacturing of packaging of materials mostly used in the healthcare, pharmaceutical, electronic and optical industries among others. Cyclic Olefin Polymer (COP) is an amorphous polymer made by several polymer manufacturers. COP is a relatively new class of polymers as compared to commodities such as polypropylene and polyethylene. Increasing demand from end-user industries such as lenses, packaging films, displays, vials and medical devices is escalating the demand for Cyclic Olefin Polymer market. Cyclic Olefin Polymers is also known as Ethylene Copolymer, Clyclon Olefin Copolymer and Ethylene-norbornene Copolymer.

In the present scenario, Cyclic Olefin Polymers have developed as a fascinating substitute to the most well-known polymers used in micro-fluidics. Cyclic Olefin Polymers have few ideal properties, such as low water absorption, good chemical resistance and high transmission in the near UV range. There is an extensive collection of fabrication approaches available. With a specific end goal to pick the most suitable one, it is important to consider the resolution, manufacturing cost and surface roughness.

In short, it is an ideal plastic for vial systems because they have clarity like glass and suitable physicochemical properties and the ability to be sterilized.

Geographically, Japan has witnessed a tremendous growth in Global Cyclic Olefin Polymer (COP) market as it has captured all the major manufacturers of this particular ingredient. In regions such as North America and Western Europe, especially in the US, there is a huge potential for growth of the COP market as this regions has captured a large number of manufacturers includes pharmaceuticals, healthcare, electronics, optical products. Also, the other regions where the market has opportunities and restraints will be coverd in this report.
