LAS VEGAS, NEVADA, USA, April 12, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Rudy Ruettiger, who has been a role model and a hero to millions, not only predicted that Villanova would be the Champions, but how and when it would happen. Prior to the game, Rudy received a phone call from a Villanova Alumni Joe Stieners, who excitedly asked Rudy who he thought would win the NCAA Basketball championship game against North Carolina. It's been over 30 years (1985) since Villanova played for the championship, so to say that they were underdogs was an understatement. Rudy, being the quintessential underdog, said - without blinking - "Villanova", and that they were going to win it in the final second at the buzzer. That's exactly what happened. "Rudy Called the Shot"

According to Rudy "No one in the beginning of the season ever considered Villanova, and today they are the Champions." Rudy first inspired millions of people through the telling of his life story, and continues to inspire them by speaking in front of audiences around the world. Rudy has now turned his interest in reaching millions with his inspirational messages to reaching even more through inspirational movies. Rudy has taken a position as Vice President of Corporate Development for Stellaris International Enterprises. One of the company's Divisions - Stellaris Films - is currently focusing on producing mainly motivational and inspirational films. Projects in the works are: Born in June, a movie about June Jones, the man responsible for coaching the best comeback in NCAA history at the University of Hawaii, and the many lives he has positively affected; Outwitting the Devil, a movie based on the motivational book written by Napoleon Hill; WindTamer, an animation version of Rudy; Sedona Sage, a spiritual coming of age film; and Huggins, an animation film about Harmony.
