SMI's 5th annual Smart Water Systems conference will feature case studies and project updates on smart metering technologies from an array of water utilities.

LONDON, ENGLAND, UNITED KINGDOM, April 19, 2016

/EINPresswire.com/ -- SMI's 5th annual Smart Water Systems conference, taking place on 25th - 26th April 2016 in London, will provide a timely platform to discover how water companies are benefiting from smart metering technology, with the short and long-term gains discussed. The two-day programme will feature an array of case studies which will detail the results and progress made from some of the largest UK and European smart water system roll-outs.

Furthermore, special focus will be provided on how we can locate and extract meaningful information from the big data generated and first-hand accounts will be shared on how this information can be used to produce significant environmental, social and economic advantage

Speaker Panel includes:

- Danny Leamon, Head of Metering, Thames Water
- Penny Hodge, Head of Policy and Stakeholder Engagement, Southern Water
- Marcello Bondesan, Head of Energy Engineering Department, HERA
- Kevin Murray, Metering Technology and Solutions Specialist, Irish Water
- Natalie Jakomis, Chief Statistician/Head of Smart Hub Support and Development, Dwr Cymru Welsh Water
- Andrew Smith, Regional Optimisation Manager, Anglian Water
