BEVERLY HILLS, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, April 28, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- With nearly a decade at the helm of producing Australia's number one French Magazine, David Hulston, Editor and Publisher, believes it's time for a "Changing of the Guard" and to pass the baton over to a young savvy, vivacious journalist named Krystle McGill. McGill at the age of 20 had her own career strategy mapped out, as the youngest journalist to receive her Masters in Journalism at Sydney University.

Krystle McGill, with her stealth journalistic approach has achieved worldwide recognition in the entertainment and lifestyle world with high accolades on every major red carpet from Golden Globe Awards, Grammy Awards and SAG Awards just to name a few. "After spending an afternoon with Krystle, I knew that she was the right girl for our French Provincial Magazine. Our world is changing fast. Print is moving online and social media is taking over the universe, and who better to pilot this journey than Krystle McGill who is a well-grounded, educated young lady with a heart of gold and I know working closely with Krystle, French Provincial

Krystle McGill Editor In Chief

Magazine could be the number one French Magazine in the world", said Hulston.

McGill is also an Actress and Celebrity who recently has had a major career win with two recent movies winning, "Best Picture" 2016 in Hollywood at the world famous "Chinese Theatre" and her other movie which has been selected at the prestigious "Cannes Film Festival" in May 2016. McGill has taken on the task as the new Editor in Chief of French Provincial Magazine and believes that the new look, style and image will show more entertainment, lifestyle, food and all the specialties that France and its glorious regions has to offer. "The World is Yours, don't Dream it, Live it and that's my vision I see for French Provincial Magazine moving forward" says McGill.

French Provincial Magazine appointment of Krystle McGill as the new Editor In Chief will commence 1st of May 2016.
