

Kill 'em Quick, Dead and Often

Managing oral biofilms is a tough task, even for dentists. This course for dental professionals at CDA PRESENTS highlights a non-invasive dental approach.

ANAHEIM, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, May 5, 2016

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Dr. Duane Keller of Perio Protect will be presenting a course on Perio Tray therapy for treating gum disease at CDA Presents. The course title is "Kill 'em Quick, Dead, and Often." The meeting will start at 8:00AM on May 13th in room 304 C/D in the Anaheim Convention Center.

Treating gum disease (a.k.a. periodontal disease, periodontitis, or gingivitis) is a difficult task for dental patients, as evidenced by the fact that over 50% of the population has some form of this disease. Perio Tray therapy is unique because it is a doctor-prescribed non-invasive gum disease treatment. Most other treatments are very invasive, painful, and expensive. The Perio Tray® is an FDA-cleared medical device. It is specially designed with a seal that goes around the gum-line to deliver and hold medication at the source of the infection long enough to effectively kill the bacteria that causes gum disease.

This course is offered to dental professionals at major dental conventions. Perio Protect providers across the United States and Canada offer this treatment to their patients. There are currently over six thousand providers registered to offer this alternative to more invasive procedures. The side effects to using Perio Tray therapy include whiter teeth and fresher breath.
