

Global Automotive Remote Diagnostics Market 2016 Share, Trend, Segmentation and Forecast to 2020

Wiseguyreports.com adds "Automotive Remote Diagnostics Market to Grow at a 14.07% CAGR Forecast to 2020".

PUNE, INDIA, May 26, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/
-- About the Automotive Remote Diagnostics Market

Technavio defines automotive remote diagnostics or remote vehicle diagnostics as a solution that enables automation of vehicle health and diagnosis using a wireless network. Vehicle health check refers to monitoring vehicle performance by continuously checking and assessing real time data of certain parameters. This process helps to identify any deviation against expected vehicle performance. Diagnosis refers to the investigation based on real-time vehicle data associated with vehicle performance parameter deviation and the determination of root causes of the deviation. This technology offers several business benefits to both customers and OEMs by enabling an effective vehicle health planner. The use of this technology curbs vehicle downtime and service time. Such reductions are part of effective aftersales service and product/service differentiation that can be offered to the customer.

The research analysts forecast the global automotive remote diagnostics market to grow at a CAGR of 14.07% during the period 2016-2020.
