Strengthened partner ecosystem

KuppingerCole also mentions Omada's focus on the partner ecosystem: "Omada has also strengthened its partner ecosystem and formed new partnerships with leading system integrations."* "Omada has invested significantly in expanding our partner channel, and we have recently launched a new channel partner program, which has been very well received by our growing community of implementation partners and technology partners," said Morten Boel Sigurdsson, and explained: "Key to Omada's success is our close collaboration with customers and partners. We continuously validate our company vision and industry trends with strategic customers and partners, ensuring that the company's offerings are relevant and market-leading. By listening to our customers and partners, we are able to ascertain how high-impact developments such as technological advances and changes in legislation influence organizations. Through close collaboration with partners and the organizations using Omada's solutions, we detect fluctuations in the market, and predict and adjust to shifts in our enterprise customers' needs," said Morten Boel Sigurdsson.
