

Grandma Rosies Now Offers Online Ordering For Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Delivery

WOLLONGONG, NSW, AUSTRALIA, June 7, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Grandma Rosie's, a well-known fresh produce distributor located in Wollongong, South Coast of NSW, has now open their online shop for online ordering.

Grandma Rosies was established in 1993 by Tony and his sons and has been operating for more than 20 years in Wollongong and the Illawarra area. A household name for fresh fruit and vegetable delivery and wholesale, Grandma Rosies has been serving customers from Helensburgh to Kiama for more than two decades by delivering daily to organisations and businesses in the Illawarra area. Now they also offer daily delivery for individuals and households who need regular fresh produce delivered to their door when they need it.

A spokesperson from Grandma Rosies said, "We notice there are now more demand for fresh fruits and vegetables delivery to individual households. We decide to fill this gap for the following reasons: people are more aware of the importance of healthy diet, they have less time to shop for their daily needs, and it is harder to find fresh fruit and vegetables that get delivered to your house daily. We aim to fill this needs for individual customers in the Illawarra area. Whereas before we only deliver to organisations and businesses from Helensburgh to Kiama, now we make this service also available to the individual households. To make it even sweeter, we do not charge for delivery fees at all if your total order is just more than $25. And last but not least, not just our products are fresher than similar products on the shelves in traditional supermarkets, but our price is also much more competitive. There are really no reasons not to order your fresh fruit and vegetable online from our e-commerce shop".

Tony and his sons have a diverse background in the industry, from farming, wholesale distribution, managing chain stores and involvement in small retail outlets. Their warehouse is located in Unanderra, about 5km south of Wollongong city centre. What makes the difference in the freshness of their products is because all the fruits and vegetables are refrigerated for freshness, and delivered daily.

"The move from only offering fruit and vegetable wholesale to now an online retailer is a win-win solution for both our customers and us. Everyone in the Illawarra area can now enjoy the freshness of the produces that they need delivered to them daily free of charge, and it also helps us in expanding our business. It is our vision to be the largest fresh produce wholesaler and retailer in Wollongong and the Illawarra area, and this is the next step for us to get there", said Grandma Rosies spokesperson.
