

Gene Carr Swiftly Skates onto 1on1

Fans can book a time for a private one-on-one video call with Gene Carr

WHITE PLAINS, NEW YORK, USA, June 9, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Valuesettters Inc. (OTC:VSTR) announced that it has signed an agreement with dotSport LLC to provide technology services for its interactive video platform, www.1on1.fans, that enables fans to make face-to-face private video conversations with their favorite athletes.

Gene Carr, formerly of the NY Rangers and LA Kings, is the first player to be featured.

Valuesettter's Chief Executive Officer, Manny Teixeira, said, "We are very pleased with the progress that 1on1 has made, in creating a website that allows fans to book video calls with their favorite athletes. And we are honored to feature Gene Carr, who was once the fastest skater in the NHL. Our representative met with Gene to introduce him to 1on1 technology, and we can assure you that Gene is one of the most pleasurable people we have ever met."

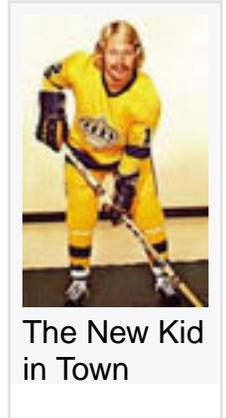

Several former NHL players are coming to the aid of Gene, who suffers from diabetes, has endured two hip surgeries, and awaits stem cell surgery in the hope of improving the quality of his life. They are encouraging everyone to schedule an exclusive 20-minute video chat with Gene on www.1on1.fans, for a fee of $75. dotSport LLC, the owner of the website, has committed to sending 100% of its fee for each 20-minute 1on1 video chat with Gene, directly to him, to help Gene pay for his medical expenses.

Valuesettters provides the underlying technology that allows the video call to occur in a web browser, so that anyone with a webcam on their computer, or a smart phone, can click a link and enjoy a one-on-one video call with Gene.

"Even if you are not a hockey fan, we encourage you to use our technology and schedule a call with Gene," said Mr. Teixeira. "We believe you will enjoy every second of his positive demeanor and indomitable spirit. As one of the close friends of Glenn Frey of The Eagles, who on occasion wore Gene's jersey on stage, many people are aware that it was Gene who inspired the song The New Kid in Town."
