The Future Of Data Backup Is Now

Prosoft Engineering Inc.'s Data Backup Pro poised to take the lead.

Livermore, CA – June 14 2016

Prosoft Engineering Inc. a leading developer of Mac OS Software, announced today the release of the new Data Backup Pro. The company, known throughout the industry as one of the greatest long time developers of Mac Utility Software, has reinvented their award winning backup utility that should be in every Mac user's home.

“This release is only the beginning of what is really a new way of backing up your data. In this version, we have added forward thinking designs that will enhance our user's experience, both now and even more so in the future.” Says Greg Brewer, CEO. “We have put a lot of development effort into transitioning our Data Backup Pro software so that it will be easily prepared for a future that will rely heavily on cloud computing.”

What's new in this release?

- Advanced Metrics Dashboard
- Improved Synchronization, Clone, and Simple copy backups
- Text and E-mail Notifications

Data Backup does intelligent backups, only copying those files that have been changed. Data Backup uses the advanced features of Mac OS X to track which files have been updated without scanning for them, meaning backups start and finish faster.

Prosoft Engineering has been the face of some of the most well-known Mac Utility Software worldwide. The products they have created have been awarded highly and include software such as Data Rescue, Drive Genius, Media Tools, and others.
