GREENWOOD VILLAGE, COLORADO, USA, June 24, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Colorado welcomes a new independent business, Fleur People Corporation ("Fleur People", www.FleurPeople.com), that provides healthy vending machines throughout the Rocky Mountain region.

Eating more nutritious foods is a common goal for many individuals, families, and businesses. The question is, how do you do it in 'REAL LIFE'? Hectic schedules, availability, and cost all get in the way of eating healthy and smart.

Providing wholesome vending machines in airports, educational facilities, gyms, office parks, retirement communities, and the like, is an easy first step administration can take to champion a healthier community. Fleur People independently owns and operates cutting-edge American-made machinery that provides Coloradans with more readily available healthy food and drink options.

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) released updated nutrition standards for snacks and drinks served throughout the school building, in vending machines, school stores, snack carts and a la carte lines. This means we must all work together to ... meet these new guidelines." (cite: Alliance for a Healthier Generation, www.healthiergeneration.org)

The Rocky Mountain Metro Airport (<http://jeffco.us/airport/>) in Jefferson County, CO, and St. John's Church and School (www.StJohnsDenver.org) in Denver, CO, are among the first Colorado businesses to showcase Fleur People healthy vending machines.

"I'd like to provide another facet to the general public's 'fast food' options," said Kristin Kim, CEO of Fleur People. "Snack food can be filling and tasty, while still being healthy and easily accessible."
