

Business Owners: Protecting Your Employees and Customers

Do Business Owners Have a Responsibility to Provide for the Safety of Their Staff, Customers and Clients? One New Company Says Yes!

ALPENA, ARKANSAS, UNITED STATES, July 6, 2016 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Alpena, Arkansas — She stands just over five foot tall and weighs barely more than a hundred pounds, but Kathy Hicks of Protected By SALT is on a mission to help keep everyone safe, whether at home, on the job, or even while shopping or enjoying an evening out.

With the devastating rise in gun violence throughout America, there is once again a battle raging in DC and the News Media over whether the government should step in and regulate the possession of firearms, but Kathy Hicks has another idea. While headlines are talking about the Orlando Night Club Tragedy and numerous other workplace shootings that have taken place since then, she has been preparing to teach business owners how to prepare and protect, but without resorting to firearms or costly armed security.

“Most small businesses either can't have, or don't want, guns in their establishments, so if anyone brings in a gun, it could mean danger for everyone inside,” Kathy says. “I'm offering training to business employees on how to use the SALT Gun, instead, because it instantly incapacitates an attacker, but without running the risk of killing anyone.”

The SALT Gun is not a firearm. Instead, it uses the power of compressed air to launch a plastic round that is filled with a potent combination of Tear Gas and Ghost Pepper Extract. Bursting on impact, it creates a cloud that engulfs the attacker, instantly making it almost impossible for him to see or catch his breath.

“If an attacker enters your business,” Kathy says, “you have a responsibility to do whatever it takes to protect your employees and customers. Keeping a firearm in your desk or under the counter is one option, but most people will hesitate before they pull the trigger and use deadly force. Then you have the problem of whether your employee even knows how to use a firearm safely. The SALT Gun eliminates those concerns, because you don't have to worry about whether an innocent bystander might be killed, and the SALT Gun is so much easier to use. There is no recoil, no loud explosion, no devastating, life destroying guilt afterward and no wrongful death lawsuits against you or your company.”

Protected By SALT was recently launched to promote the Non-Lethal Response, by offering training in the use of SALT Guns for Home and Workplace Defense. "I'm going to tell you something," Kathy says. "As little as I am, if I can protect myself and my family without having to kill anyone, then so can anyone else. Since these are not firearms, they can be kept at hand even in gun free zones, ready to respond to even the deadliest attack. A shooter who invades your business with his assault rifle will go down just as quickly under the SALT Rounds as anyone else, and while they may not prevent every tragedy, the presence of SALT Guns and Staff Members who know how to use them can save a lot of lives every year."
