

Best Wedding Tips for the Groomsmen

Your best mate has asked you to be by his side on the biggest day of his life.

LA, CA, USA, July 19, 2016

/EINPresswire.com/ -- There are a few things you should be looking out for and taking control of on his big day. Not only is your role to make sure your buddy gets to the wedding on time, but you need to also make sure any issues are sorted with haste on the day. This can include family dramas, accommodation issues or even a missing groom. (You'd be surprised how often this actually happens).

1. Don't forget the ring. If you're in charge of it, probably best you don't forget one if the most important things to remember o the day. You don't want to be "that guy" for 50 years to come.

2. Make sure you are properly primed. Your hair should be trimmed and tidy, and that includes your facial hair – you might even consider a nose hair trimmer. And thinking about those close ups photos – you might consider a blackhead remover as well.

3. Be sober. There isn't much worse that can go wrong than when half the wedding party is drunk before the guests arrive. Weddings create memories that last a lifetime. Do you really want your best mate and his new wife to remember you stumbling and bumbling all over the place during the ceremony because you couldn't keep it together?

4. Be prepared to put out fires and solve problems. There's going be issues, because there always is. They might be simple and they might be complicated. Be prepared for anything, and be prepared to have solutions that will make everyone happy.

5. Make sure the groom gets to the wedding early, and in one piece. This is clearly the big one. Practical jokes are great, and can be really funny, however putting your best mate on a flight to a different country might not be the best idea for a laugh on the day he is meant to be marrying his love.
