

Wedding Day Guidelines for Bridesmaids

You might not be the one getting married, but being a bridesmaid is still an important role to play in a wedding.

LA, CA, USA, July 26, 2016

/EINPresswire.com/ -- . You walk down the aisle first, you pose in most of the photos and it's your job to ensure the bride's day is as perfect as possible. To make your day more relaxed, Aotearoa Beauty has 5 Top Wedding Day Tips for Bridesmaids:

1. Look amazing! Before you join the bride to have your hair and make-up done, there's a few little beauty secrets you should look into so you know you're doing everything you can to look amazing in the wedding photos. Investing in a comedone extractor \(blackhead remover\) is one of the best things you ever buy, particularly for those photo close ups; and you might also like to look into getting a hair trimmer, just in case you're looking a touch unruly in the morning.

2. Help the bride. This is a huge day for her and the culmination of months of planning. As bridesmaid, it's your role to help her day be as stress-free as possible so do as much as you can to make things easier (even if that just means grabbing her a glass of bubbly to calm her nerves).

3. Be prepared for anything! Pack a survival kit with an extra pair of shoes, paracetamol, band-aids, double sided tape, tissues, bobby pins and breath mints. You never know when you might need them.

4. Be friendly with the other bridesmaids. You might not know them very well, or you might not get along, but this day isn't about you. Time to bury the hatchet, open your mind and enjoy each other's company. Happy bridesmaids make for a happy wedding – and great photos!

5. Enjoy yourself! No doubt the lead up to this day has been a busy one for you too, so this is the time where you can have laugh, dance and have fun to celebrate your friend's marriage.
