PUNE, INDIA, July 21, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- COMPLETE REPORT DETAILS @ <https://www.wiseguyreports.com/reports/494929-electric-vehicle-market-in-china-2016-2020>

China has been aggressive in its efforts to promote EV adoption, primarily to cope with the growing pollution scenario. China was placed at the top of the nations with the most carbon dioxide emissions in 2011. China's tremendous economic growth has been riding on the country's manufacturing sector, which has been a key contributor to the emissions. Apart from the manufacturing sector, industrial segments such as thermal power plants have also contributed largely to the country's carbon emissions. The share of the transportation sector in carbon emissions has increased significantly in the past two decades.

The analysts forecast the electric vehicle charging station market in China to grow at a CAGR of 115.84% during the period 2016-2020.
