"I've been trying to make it in the world as a navy veteran, divorced and a single parent of two boys since adulthood. My book was made out of quickly writing on anything and I could find to write on, whether it could be brown paper bags, napkins, scraps of paper, or little green booklets. I kept all memoirs in a worn out blue duffel bag... until one day, I decided to fulfill a bucket list dream," Johns shares when asked about the inspiration behind her book.

John's book is a relatable literary write-up that serves as a life coaching book among her readers. The author shares of how her trials and triumphs have inspired her to get closer to God and to learn from her mistakes.

Even when Johns has been through the school of hard knocks, she has a bachelor from Chapman University and a lot of papers saying she has knowledge in Mortgage, Life & Health Insurance and Massage Therapy. Johns' hobbies are writing, drawing, watching movies, spectator and fan of baseball and dirt bike riding and anything with water make her happy.
