Market Synopsis of Human Insulin Market:

Market Scenario:

Human insulin is also known as synthetic insulin which is prepared in laboratory and has same characteristics like natural insulin. Human insulin was developed through the 1960s and 1970s and approved for pharmaceutical use in 1982. Before the invention of human insulin animal insulin, usually a purified form of porcine was used.

The market for global human insulin is expected to reach up to $40 billion by the end of the forecasted period and is expected to grow at a CAGR of ~10-12%.

The major factors contributing to the market growth are; increase in prevalence of diabetic population, rise in geriatric population, rising awareness of diabetes and rising prevalence of obesity.

However, strict regulatory requirements for approval of insulin and high cost of analog are inhibiting the growth of the global human insulin market. Along with that, delayed onset of action, and various side effects of human insulin are also limiting the growth of this market across the globe.
