A military action that involves the use of electromagnetic (EM) emission and directs energy to gain control over the EM spectrum (EMS) or to assail the enemy can be termed as Electronic Warfare (EW). The aim of EW is to deny the opponent the advantage of and facilitate access to the EMS. It can be initiated from land, sea, air, and space by manned and unmanned systems, and can target communications, radar, people, or other assets.

EW has become a weapon for countries and non-state organizations. Its applications have been exploited by drug cartels and numerous terrorist groups to threaten nations, who in turn try to defend themselves by developing suitable EW systems.

The analysts forecast the global electronic warfare market to grow at a CAGR of 4.04% during the period 2016-2020.
