

Early Bird for Leading Airborne ISR Defence Meeting due To Expire End of the Month

SMi reports: Future attendees for this year's Airborne ISR conference are advised to register by 31 August to save £200.

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, August 1, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The £200 booking discount for SMi Group's military conference, Airborne ISR will expire on the 31st August 2016. This discount is available for all types of bookings and will be the last chance for attendees to save substantial money when booking their spot at this year's event.

Proudly sponsored by Galleon Embedded Computing and Harris Corporation, the eagerly awaited event includes 14 thought provoking speakers, over 5 hours of networking, leading ISR military & industry specialists all under one roof, and is still growing.

The event's presentations will thoroughly examine the disciplines of airborne intelligence gathering, processing, command and control, bringing together experienced operators, capability developers and solution providers. The informative conference will provide a comprehensive overview on developing the practices and technologies required for information superiority.

Senior professionals at the heart of ISR systems operation, development and integration, will also provide the very latest on technological developments enhancing intelligence, surveillance, reconnaissance and targeting.

The highly focused, expert led presentations will explore an array of new technologies, airframes and benefit from a diverse international line up of senior military and MoD speakers from the: Royal Air Force (UK), French Air Force, United States Air Force, German Air Force, NATO AEW&C, Defence Command Denmark, Royal Netherlands Air Force, DSTL, Ministry of Defence Spain, RUSI and many more.

The programme will also feature two interactive expert led panel discussions on 'Effective Concepts of Operation for Collection of Intelligence' and 'Deliberating the Direction and Requirements of Command and Control for ISTAR Operations'.
