

Keep Track of Pets, Luggage and other Valuable Items Tracker Now Releases First Globally Capable Tracking Device

Vacationing in China, but the luggage went to Cambodia? Track It with Tracker Now

GARDEN GROVE, CA, USA, August 15, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Introducing Tracker Now, the first globally capable tracking device for all types of items. The small, app-partnering tracker utilizes advanced GPS and Bluetooth technology to send its location to smartphones from anywhere across the globe, making it the perfect security blanket for luggage, mobile devices, pets and loved ones.

Tracker Now has just met its Kickstarter goal, but there are still 12 days left to take advantage of the deep Kickstarter discounts offered for the December delivery date.

Manufactured in the USA, Tracker Now is the first and only tracking device to feature a worldwide tracking range, long-lasting lithium-ion battery and a waterproof casing. It's the first and only device of its kind on the market to combine an alert speaker, geo-fencing capabilities, powerful processor and SIM card. A work-in-progress update is available to view now on Kickstarter. Check out full product info at <http://kck.st/2aZXDcG>.

"Tracker Now's combined use of Bluetooth, GPS, GSM and Wifi provides effective global tracking for extended durations on a single charge and in a small package. Building upon our recent Kickstarter success, Tracker Now is looking for OEM partnerships wanting to secure their valued products in the pet market," said Joe Pantel, CEO of Tracker Now.

The power of Tracker Now is unleashed with an Android and iOS-compatible app, where users can instantly pinpoint item locations on a satellite-view map. For advanced security, draw a geo-fence and be alerted if the tracker ever leaves the defined area. Additional web browser functionality provides tracking of items when a personal phone is unavailable or compromised.

Kickstarter Availability

Tracker Now is still taking early bird pre-orders (40 percent off MSRP), for $89 via Kickstarter until August 27. The product is expected to ship in December 2016. Businesses can receive even deeper discounts on bulk orders and Tracker Now is perfect for keeping track of company assets such as mobile devices and parcels.

About Tracker Now

Entrepreneur and visionary Joe Pantel, after three years of research and development has recently finalized his first Kickstarter project called Tracker Now. It is a tracking tag for people, pets and items, that employs GPS, Wi-Fi and Bluetooth (low energy) Smart (LE). Pantel was previously among the market leaders in award-winning weatherproof, outdoor HDTV displays. He is now the driving force behind the Tracker Now device.
