

Crossing Over and Coming Home: LGBT Near Death Experiences

The author of Crossing Over and Coming Home will be putting out a second book on the LGBT Near Death Experience.

SAN PABLO, CA, USA, August 28, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Liz Dale, PhD set out to publish a series of LGBT Near Death Experiences and placed an ad in a local San Francisco newspaper asking the LGBT community to send in their stories. This initial book, published in 2000 by Emerald Ink Publications, was successful in that it published stories that had never been recorded in such fashion before.

In one LGBT story, the author asked the question: "Is it OK to be gay?" The NDEr was told quite clearly, "Who do you think created gay people?"

Man by the name of Andre

Over the years, Liz Dale, PhD has gone to various International Association for Near Death Studies conferences and shared stories from the book. Now it is time to ask the LGBT Near Death Experiencer (NDEr) for more stories for a second book and share whatever they learned from having had an NDE. The website, www.LizDale.com is full of ideas that LGBT NDErs can refer to in formulating their responses. Please know that each NDE that is sent in also needs a statement giving approval to publish these stories in the second book. We have contacted Balboa Press (Division of Hay House) and they have kindly agreed to publish this second book in the near future.

Additionally, a second study is underway comparing LGBT to non-gay NDEs. For more information, take a look at page 5 of www.LizDale.com for details. We have placed a worksheet to record your answers and are asking for you to share details of your experience. What are the key ingredients of your NDE and what meaning has come from such an experience? Both the LGBT and the non-gay NDE are important. We are interested in exploring the similarities and differences in these two groups of people who have had an NDE. Should you have interest in this LGBT study or the cross cultural comparison study, please contact Liz Dale at her email (Lizsanpablo@aol.com) or Post Office Box 153 Pinole, CA 94564.

The study of the LGBT Near Death Experience is critically important to those who are interested in the NDE and to all those who are interested in what happens during and after having had an NDE. What is learned from having such an experience and how does that impact the life of the experiencer? Please send in your story and consent form. You will be contacted directly by Liz Dale, PhD and you can know that your story and the effects are important for your own life and for others who may benefit from reading about such experiences.
