

New Writer's Accountability Group for Self-Publishing Authors

Writers workshop, FictionWritingWorkshop.com, is looking for 5 self-publishing authors to join an accountability group for writers.

TEXAS, AMERICA, September 1, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- All ability levels are welcome and genre or niche is irrelevant. However, it's important to note that we are looking for action takers who are willing to commit to self-publishing at least 4 titles per year.

It is free to join the group, and you will gain from critiques within the group and our support in sharing your book updates across our combined social media and blogging platforms.

Neither is there any geographical restriction, as the writers group will meet through an online forum.

“

This won't be a Facebook group. Too many of those have no clear focus and the group becomes divided. This will be a small group with our own forum on the website. This will be focused on success.

Murder and Mayhem; and The Hope of Dawn.

Dave and Patti came to know each other through the internet marketing community and decided that Texans and Irish could work well together in self-publishing, so why not form a writers group and help others!

While membership of the group is free, we request that it be taken seriously. You don't need to have already published; you just need to have the courage and integrity to see it through from now on.

Visit the fiction workshop at FictionWritingWorkshop.com to join now.
