

The Certified Safety and Health Manger Exam Undergoing Extensive Review.

The Institute for Safety and Health Management (ISHM) proudly announces that the CSHM Exam is Being Updated

YUMA, AZ, US, September 1, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Institute for Safety and Health

The EHS world constantly changes, the exam needs to evolve to keep up with those changes”

Tom Slavin CSHM, CIH, CSP

Management has long been the only credentialing organization that focuses on the entire EHS management processes. ISHM was established by the National Safety Management Society that was started by forward thinking safety professionals that, to this day, are considered the thought leaders on EHS management issues.

Applicants for the coveted CSHM must meet education and experience requirements before they are allowed to sit for the exam. ISHM takes very seriously it’s responsibility that the exam accurately reflects the duties of today’s EHS managers as well as contain questions that both challenge and evaluate a person’s knowledge.

To that end ISHM regularly assesses the CSHM exam which is currently undergoing a total evaluation to assure that it meets both currency and accuracy standards.
