

Social Enterprise Publisher Launches New Sponsored Book

Arkbound, the Bristol based publishing social enterprise, has launched a new book by a collection of young poets.

BRISTOL, AVON, BRISTOL, September 20, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- A collection of rap, songs and poems has been published by Arkbound. Featuring song writers, rap singers and poets from across the UK, the collection has been heralded as the "the UK's Streetwise Bible". In the words of esteemed poet Khadijah Ibrahiim this newly published book "rings out verses that shine in the hearts and mind of each writer who are shaping and reshaping time and place."

Compiled by Urban Word Collective, 'Lyrically Justified' is the 5th fully sponsored book of Arkbound Publishing, and the authors are also donating proceeds towards the charity Freedom Project. It is a testimony to the power of young artistic talent, who have risen up from disadvantaged backgrounds to challenge stereotypes. It is one of those books that can leave you crying, laughing or in tears as you read through the passionate words of each page.

'Lyrically Justified' features the works of twenty talented artists – from Empress Imani to Louis Macintosh. It is now available to purchase at a special launch discount from <http://arkbound.com/featured-books>

Arkbound is an award winning social enterprise that aims to promote environmental sustainability, artistic talent, social inclusion and community development. It publishes books and magazines. For more information visit <http://arkbound.com/>
