

Do's and Don'ts of online dating

It's a tough world out there when it comes to online dating: deciding who to trust and figuring out the online etiquette can be daunting.

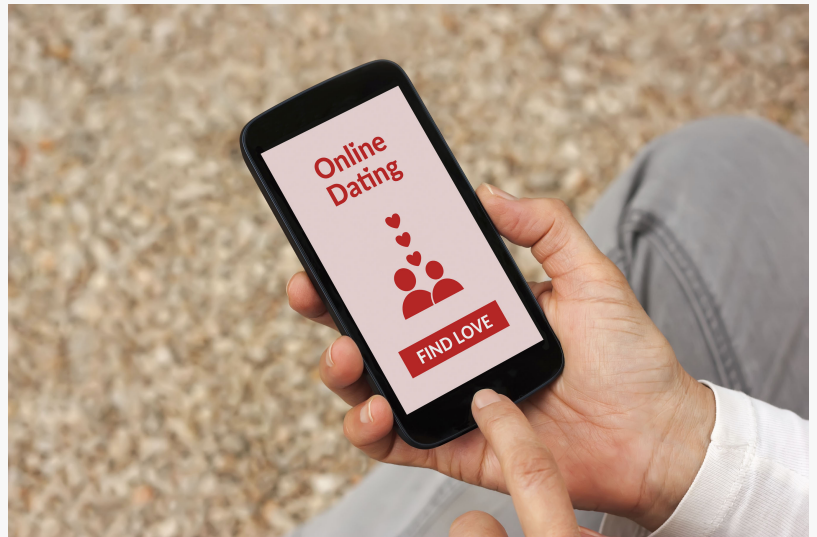

LA, CA - CALIFORNIA, USA, September 12, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- So we came up with these 5 dos and 5 don'ts to help you:

Do's

1. Do be confident. Men and women love others who are confident enough to contact them first; so if you like someone, say something. The worst they can do is say no.
2. Do write a great profile. Make sure you use good English, double check your spelling, and only put information in there that is absolutely necessary.
3. Do use great photos. Find photos where you are laughing and having fun, but don't use glamour shots. Make sure your photos are only of you (not with your arm around a gorgeous model) and don't try to be too sexy in the photo. Just make them lighthearted. Make yourself look good in your photos as well.
4. Do get to know the person before you decide to meet. Use the chat features on the dating site, and get onto Skype and video call each other. You might even like to check out their Facebook page.
5. Do meet in a public place. If you've found someone you like, arrange to meet them at the movies or at a public bar rather than at someone's home.

Don't

1. Don't try to find someone who is perfect. They don't exist.
2. Don't lie. If your profile says you are a 6ft tall Doctor, and your date finds out you are actually 5ft and unemployed – there's going to be some disappointment. Better to start off on the right foot by telling the truth.
3. Don't try too hard. You might be a funny person, but different people have a different perception of humour; so keep it to a minimum.
4. Don't fall for a scam. If someone sounds too good to be true, they probably are!

5. Don't give out your personal information. If you want to share your mobile phone number, that's fine, but don't give out your home phone number, your address or your place of work. Aotearoa Beauty make a few tools to help you great for that profile photo or make a great first impression.
