The Global Agrochemicals Market accounted for $219.2 billion in 2015 and is expected to reach $282.3 billion growing at a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 3.7% during the forecast period 2015 to 2022. The major drivers of the market include increase in aging population and demand for food and soil degradation. Moreover, ease of use, increasing growth rate in greenhouse vegetable production, growing awareness among farmers for using fertilizers and pesticides in crops and growing number of advancements in technology are some of the key factors favoring the market growth. However, factors such as growing environmental concerns and accessibility of Eco-friendly substitutes are hindering the market growth. Expansion of cultivable crops and yield will offer a significant growth opportunity over the forecast period.
