Description

Wiseguyreports.Com Adds “3D Printing Materials -Market Demand, Growth, Opportunities and analysis of Top Key Player Forecast to 2021” To Its Research Database

3D printing is a technique in which a scanned or digitally designed object is formed into a three-dimensional solid using an additive process. In this process, metal is applied in successive layers with less wastage. 3D printing products can be built from materials in which plastic and metals are the most commonly used materials. A 3D object is designed using computer-aided design (CAD) software or a 3D scanner. The digitalized designed or scanned object is taken by the proprietary software and mathematically sliced into cross sections.

The analysts forecast the global 3D printing materials market to grow at a CAGR of 25.39% during the period 2016-2020.

Covered in this report

The report covers the present scenario and the growth prospects of the global 3D printing materials market for 2016-2020. In order to calculate the market size, we considered the revenue generated through sales of smart glass products for applications such as transportation, infrastructural development, and others (electronics applications and solar energy applications).

The market is divided into the following segments based on geography:

- Americas
- APAC
- EMEA

Technavio's report, Global 3D Printing Materials Market 2016-2020, has been prepared based on an in-depth market analysis with inputs from industry experts. The report covers the market landscape and its growth prospects over the coming years. The report also includes a discussion of the key vendors operating in this market.

Key vendors

- Arcam

- EOS
- Hoganas
- Solvay
- Sandvik
